

Jump Start

Aviary rearing for laying hens

Aviary rearing is becoming more important as the number of hens in aviary systems is increasing rapidly. With aviary rearing it is important to teach the young birds to jump. Winching the hanging platforms gradually increases difference between the feeding and drinking levels encouraging the birds to jump from one level to another. The plastic Vencoslat gives optimal foot support to the birds and can easily be hinged at the end of the flock to allow easily cleaning the house.

Uniform aviary rearing

- Suitable for all production systems
- Uniformity in the flock
- Strong and healthy birds

Teaches the birds to jump

- Variable height with winchable platforms
- Gradually increasing height differences
- Feeding and drinking lines at different levels

Clean and hygienic rearing

- Easy house cleaning after each flock
- Hygienic plastic slat
- Low maintenance level

Vencomatic®

Tel. +31 (0) 497-517380
www.vencomatic.com

